Youthful Sorprano Delights

By RACHEL MORTON

Those of us who were fortunate in hearing Mona Paulee sing last Monday night at the Pacific Grove High School auditorium were privileged to have brought to us again the old days of virtuoso singing.

In my student days in Europe I heard such singing from Chaliapin, Bodestini, Lilli Lehman and Jean de Reszke. But since those days never have I heard combined in one throat such voluptuous tone with such perfect bel canto production.

The voice in itself is most unusually beautiful in rich sonorous quality; a contralto certainly in color, but remarkable in flexibility and range. And as if the Gods

Bach Head Is Found -- Or Is It? Rumor Is Rife

Ed. Note: At the time of going to press the Pine Cone Cymbal was unable to verify this story either with the Carmel Police Department or with the F.B.I. We print it simply as rumor.

By PHIL NESBITT

After weeks of moral and ethical perturbation, the vanished Bufano Bach head which disappeared so strangely during the Bach Festival, and which loss was so pointed as to be carried in Time magazine and by a Chicago Columnist, Robert Yoder, has been discovered. Where? In a pile of rubbish lying in a garage in Carmel, according to Benny Bufano who refuses to reveal which garage.

Benny, who is to be immediately inducted in the army at S. F. Presidio, was in Carmel this week, apparently much agitated at the fact of the discovery. The small beard which has grown on his chin he attributed to worry and urgency attendant upon the discovery. Details are lacking at this point; however, Benny remarks that during the interval between the present and the time when the head was abruptly removed from its ten foot high polished steel columnar base in Devendorf Plaza, he has been assiduously at work recreating the head form . . . in fact another head. Speculation is rife on whether this head also will suffer a disappearance in due time. A strange fate seems to increasingly pursue the Bufano objects of art. Thugs and thieves apper perpetually hot on the trail of all these classic examples of superb modern art. The attacks invariably occur just following the public erection of the varied busts, animals and figures which Benny creates.

The burning question is, "Will the culprit come forth and reveal himself for punishment? However, confessions are not necessarily expected to occur. At least the famed head had not been rudely cast into our local Pacific deeps. It has apparently gone no further away than our own small village precinct. Apparently when it was brought to Carmel, it came to roost.

PINE CONE CYMBAL RALLY

There are just two more issues of the Pine Cone Cymbal before that biggest of American Events—General Election.

As students whip up enthusiasm for their Big Game by a pre-game rally, the Pine Cone Cymbal, hoping to help bring to a climax the lively enthusiasm already rife in the town, is to hold a pre-election rally of its own in the columns of the paper.

We have offered the feature page to the leaders of the Democratic and Republican committees in Carmel. In the next issue the space of one side of the poetry column will carry an article "Why I Am Voting for Outland," on the other, "Why I Am Voting for Dingeman." In the issue immediately before election the same spaces will be occupied by twin articles, "Why I Support Warren" and "Why I Support Olsen."

These articles will be written by Carmel people chosen by the Republican and Democratic leaders of the town.

After the present issue, Box G-1 will be closed to Outland-Dingeman controversy but wide open as always to expression of opinion on any other matter.

Bechdolt's War Bonnet Found By Carmel P D

The Carmel Police Department, under Acting Chief Frank Hay, put in a week of varied activities which ranged from recovering an Indian Chief's war bonnet for Fred Bechdolt to restoring peace between a warring negro couple, and picking up a state guardsman A.W.O.L. from his Southern California regiment.

The war bonnet, along with a German helmet from World War I, a pen and stand souvenir from the Sphinx club, a silver inlaid Mexican bridle and a pair of cavalry spurs had disappeared from Bechdolt's studio during his vacation last month. Police found them this week in an empty cabin and drapes stolen from Alberto's cabin, and an electric clock and small electric motor belonging to nobody knows whom.

No Administrator Of Rent Control Here for Present

Corum Jackson, chairman of the rent committee, received word from San Francisco yesterday afternoon that there will be no administrator of rent control in the Monterey Peninsula Area for the present.

The local rent committee is to function as in the past in directing voluntary control.

Owners should be careful to keep March 1 basis in mind, Jackson says, so that when the rents are frozen there will be no difficulty in adjusting rents. The stabilization, when it does take place will be as of March 1.

School Board to Buy Bleachers For H. S. Gym

Action popular with both parents and students was taken by the school board in Tuesday night's meeting at the High School.

The board arrived at a final decision to install a block of bleachers in the high school gymnasium as another step toward completion of the school building program, and ordered publication of a notice for bids. The students have been awaiting eagerly this decision.

A safety measure of interest to parents was the voting to purchase fire extinguishers for the chemistry laboratory, furnace room, cafeteria, office and shop at

Black and White Show Opens at Carmel Gallery

By PATRICIA CUNNINGHAM

On Thursday afternoon from three to five, members and friends of the Carmel Art Association gathered at the reception opening the new exhibits on display in the galleries. There has rarely, in the history of the association, been a more interesting variety of material presented. The one man show of Howard Smiths' well-known portraits in the south gallery is balanced in the north gallery by the crisp and sparkling black and white show. And here the visitor is assured unadulterated enjoyment. Whatever the reason—perhaps the values are truer or the pattern simpler, or the artartists' intent less ponderous — an exhibition of black and whites can almost always be counted on to be the most fun. Well, this gallery fairly vibrates with one scintillating pattern after another and the visitor will surely be in a quandary as to which of the pictures is the most delightful and desirable. Most of the black-white mediums are here—lithograph, pencil, conte crayon, oil, watercolor, dry brush and charcoal—and all types of subject matter. To mention which of the drawings is particularly charming would be to mention them all—so it is best to give a full list of the exhibitors.

Armin Hansen, Martin Gambee, Maxine Albro (lithographer), John O'Shea, William Watts, Martin Baer, Henrietta Shore, Burton Bounde, Free Dean, Frank Myers, August Day, M. DeNeale Morgan, C. E. Morgan, Lee Tevis, Florence Lockwood, Royden Martin, Wm. Ritschel, Adrian Beach.

In the small center gallery are on view a collection of "thumb nail" paintings—that is, paintings of various sizes of smallness and their sale prices in proportion. Here is a good opportunity for the art lover to acquire an original painting at a nominal price. It is interesting to know that in Europe today, paintings are considered the only reliable investment so that, actually, art has be-

Citizens Asked By Mayor to Run Civilian Defense

For the purpose of widening the scope of Civilian Defense leadership, Mayor Keith Evans called a meeting of representatives of most of the major organizations in town Monday evening to form a council to determine C. D. policy and direct activities.

City officials, representatives from the service organizations, of the schools, the business association and women's clubs, took their places around the city council table and heard Mayor Evans explain that the 9th Regional Office of Civilian Defense recommends that citizen committees be organized to supervise, advise and "run" Civilian Defense, that the city attorney is now working on an ordinance to establish the official status of such a committee for Carmel, that other groups in addition to those present were to be invited to send a representative until every large group in town had been drawn into the organization.

Mrs. Harriett Rowntree, executive secretary of the Civilian Defense, told the representatives that one of their most important functions would be to acquaint the members of their own organizations with the problems of Civilian Defense and to enlist their cooperation.

She stated that at the next meeting of the council John Gilbert would report on the progress of the scrap drive; at the following, Mrs. Ida Newberry would speak on the activities of the rationing board.

She called on Mrs. Helen Wood, Sunset Principal, representating both Carmel schools, for a report on the Schools' air raid drills, and Mrs. Wood outlined the policy that has been adopted at Sunset: to leave the school building and take the children to nearby private homes that have been designated

Hudson Gone to Washington Is Missed in Carmel

William Hudson, for five years Carmel city attorney, left last week for Washington, D. C., where he will serve in the legal department in the office of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

Though his resignation had been accepted by the city council and his successor, Peter Ferrante, been appointed, members of the council and his many friends had not expected he would leave for several days, so that with characteristic modesty he succeeded in slipping away without the sendoff party that had been planned for him or the well-deserved expressions of thanks and appreciation of the council and Carmel

Night Observers Needed Urgently For Local Post

Aircraft observers for the night hours are urgently needed at Highlands aircraft warning post, according to Mr. and Mrs. Whit Wellman who are in charge. Transportation is now provided by the Army.

All those not engaged in other vital Civilian Defense work are urged to volunteer for at least a two-hour shift at the post once a week.

Persons wishing to contribute their services should telephone the Wellmans at 1-R-2.

All Community Project—

The most popular action Mayor Keith Evans has taken since he opposed the re-issuance of the Snack license was his invitation Monday night to a committee of representatives from the various groups and organizations of the town to "run" Civilian Defense.

Reaction throughout the town has been entirely favorable demonstrating that, given the opportunity, Carmel people are eager to participate in the management of Carmel affairs.

Revival of interest and enthusiasm for Civilian Defense is already felt in the community with the widening of executive control.

Another favorable result of the formation of the committee should be a synthesis of efforts of various organizations, clearing up confusion in orders, and eliminating duplicate activities.

When it is placed in the laps of the citizens, it is easier to convince them that civilian defense is not just one more service organization, but a community project and a community responsibility.

Must Fight on Home Front Says GOP Speaker

By HAL GARROTT

Mrs. Howard Hatton had every right to be proud yesterday, for the friends she brought from San Francisco to make the keynote speech at the Republican Women's rally in Memory Garden, Monterey, gave one of the best talks heard in the local campaign.

The speaker, Mrs. Eugene Prince, indulged in no bombast and minced no words:

"If we are to save Americanism we must fight for it on the home front as well as abroad," said the speaker. "We must not let our sons, sweethearts and husbands risk their lives in vain. And it is up to us women to hold the home front so our men will have something worth while to come back to.

"We must send practical men to Congress to back up our fighting men — not theorists. Let's stop talking and win the war. To carry on the successful drive of the economy bloc in the state legislature, we must elect the men who called a halt on the squandering of millions on boon-doggles."

The audience, well fed with Guy Curtis' excellent free lunch, settled down comfortably in the beautiful garden to enjoy talks by Mrs. Helen Clark Cranston, Mrs. C. C. Baker of San Francisco, Andy Jacobsen, Al J. Dingeman, who is running for Congress from this district.

Al Dingeman told of his four months in Washington during the past year, working with the Ways and Means Committee of Congress and Leon Henderson, to straighten out the difficult automobile situation.

Andy Jacobsen said there never was a time when the country stood in such need of patriots — not politicians. Mrs. Baker told the women who pleaded "defense work" as an alibi, that the most important defense work now is to back up to our fighting men with guns, not altruistic speculations about the peace terms "after we win the war."

The candidates endorsed at the meeting included Earl Warren for governor, Fred Houser, lieutenant governor, Wallace Ware, state's attorney general, Al J. Dingeman for Congress from this district.

2. That Professor George Outland has been endorsed by C.I.O. (Harry Bridges) San Francisco Executive Committee?

3. That Professor George Outland, as a candidate for Congress, for 60 days has refused to inform the Santa Barbara County Farm Bureau of his position on the Smith Anti-Racketeering bill and other Federal legislation that would stop defense strikes, slowdowns and other vicious racketeering methods of certain Union Business Agents?

4. That Professor George Outland has refused to take any position publicly on Proposition No. 1—on "hot cargo" and "secondary boycott"?

(For details of Outland's pro-union candidacy and support read your regional Union newspaper.)

ON THE OTHER HAND:

Al J. Dingeman has had the courage to make known his position on every vital question. Dingeman is opposed to defense strikes. Dingeman would outlaw "hot cargo" and "secondary boycott". Dingeman favors protecting the farmer from vicious labor practices. Radio technique, with emphasis on diction and clear speaking, will occupy a portion of the time, and several short radio plays will be rehearsed. The best of these will be presented to invited audiences, and the one which in the opinion of the audiences is judged to be the top number will be broadcast.

Wartime Clinic For Business at Adult School

A "War Time Business Clinic" will be held on next Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. in the library at Sunset School under the joint sponsorship of the Carmel Business Mens' Association and the Carmel Adult School. Shortages, rationing, tax problems and labor shortages are some of the topics to be studied. Business people of all types are invited, both employers and employees.

The wartime business clinic is sent out from the Bureau of business education of the California State Department of education with the backing of federal authorities to help business help itself during the period of total war. The leader in charge here will be Frank E. Cox, field coordinator for the state department of education. Cox is well known in Carmel, has appeared here before in business classes.

These clinics provide an opportunity for business men and women to meet with specialists and authorities who are prepared to give reliable, up-to-the-minute information on federal wartime regulations, discuss problems and provide specific answers to many problems asked by business people.

They are organized in keeping with the rapidly changing wartime conditions and in recognition of the serious crisis facing business. Their purpose is to strengthen the efficiency of every possible business operation during the emergency.

Harold Nielsen, president of the Carmel Business Mens' Association will preside at the meeting. All Carmel business people are invited whether members of the association or not. There will be no fees or solicitation of any kind whatever.

Mexican Artist Quick on Come-Back Americano

By ELIZABETH PAINE

Fidel Figueroa, Taxco artist who is showing three of his oils in the current exhibition at the Carmel Art Gallery, began painting only five years ago but in that time he has sold 3000 pictures.

The first person to buy one of his paintings was Patricia Petrocelli, formerly of the Mexican Idol shop in Monterey. Since that time his patrons have numbered people from all over the Western Hemisphere, Don Blanding and Edward G. Robinson being examples. To see the names in Figueroa's autograph book makes the town of Taxco look like a world crossways. Everyone from the director of the Chicago Art Institute to Bruce Thomas, recent Forum lecturer on British commandos, seems to have visited Figueroa's studio in Taxco, the only one in which a permanent exhibition is maintained.

Originally a silversmith, Figueroa worked under the direction of William Spratling of Taxco who is noted for renewing the interest in Mexican silver work and who has revived many of the old designs.

Taxco is as full of artists as Carmel is and Figueroa came upon one, painting in the street. He watched him for a while and became interested in trying it himself. With Spratling's encouragement, he began painting landscapes. It was not long before he was exhibiting at Taxco's Los Arcos Hotel. Now he is interested in doing religious painting and is studying portraiture with Patricia Cunningham at the Carmel Art Institute.

Oct. 31 Figueroa will open a one man show here at the Sketch Box gallery. Most of his paintings are of Mexico, of old buildings and fiestas and landscapes around Taxco, but since his arrival here this summer he has painted a few local scenes, the Mission and Normandy Inn.

The artist and his wife, a former California newspaper woman, plan to leave for New York in November, spend the winter there and return to Mexico in the spring.

Figueroa says that he likes Carmel very much because everyone is so friendly. He reports that there is a great deal of good feeling in Mexico for the United States and thinks that both the good neighbor policy of the New Deal and the many tourists of recent years have helped to bring it about.

He speaks English quite well and is rapidly picking up the American style of comeback. The other morning when he was sweeping while his wife was cooking breakfast, she asked him please not to get dust in her breakfast. "And please," said he, "do not get any breakfast in my dust."

Veterans Urge Active War Leadership

Earl Warren Served with the 91st Division; His Defense Record Is Praised

Former Servicemen Supporting World War Buddy In His Race for Governorship

Veterans of World War I—thousands of them—under the statewide leadership of Frank N. Belgrano, Jr., former national commander of the American Legion, today are campaigning for their 91st Division buddy, Attorney General Earl Warren, in his fight to win the Governorship of California.

In their campaign for new leadership in State administration, they point to Warren's activities in connection with Civilian Defense, and they openly charge Governor Culbert L. Olson with a record of appalling neglect of war preparedness and bungling of the State's defense program in "his game of playing 'politics as usual' for personal gain."

Veterans are still incensed at Olson's unwarranted attempt to belittle their efforts against subversives and un-Americanism. They do not forget his veto bills requiring school children to pledge allegiance to the flag; his veto of a bill permitting high school boards to purchase cadet uniforms; or that, in the State Senate he cast the only vote, on May 25, 1937, against a California National Guard appropriation. His record of defense neglect is long.

Warren, on the other hand, as early as January, 1941—long before Pearl Harbor—analyzed the war situation, mustered peace officers of the State, and sponsored practical defense measures. He is a forceful and courageous leader, veterans declare.

Families of men now in the service are numbered among Warren's staunchest supporters, because he also assures intelligent after-the-war leadership.

Kindliness Enriches Memory of Jane Etter For Carmel Friends

The many friends of Jane Etter, wife of Wade Etter of Carmel, were shocked to hear of her sudden passing last week as the result of a stroke. How many deeds of simple kindliness will remain in the memory of those who knew her! She seemed to find her greatest happiness in doing things for others; thoughtful, unobtrusive little things that came as a surprise of sheer friendliness. She will be greatly missed from among us.

Jane Etter was born in Karamea on the west coast of New Zealand. She came to this country about eleven years ago and decided to make her home in California. Soon after coming to Carmel she started a little enterprise of her own called Jane's Cake Shop (now the Tuck Box), where by the work of her hands she established a prosperous business. By her unfailing cheerfulness and energy she suceeded not only in making a success of her efforts, but in winning for herself a devoted group of friends.

Several years ago Mrs. Etter made a trip to New Zealand to see her family and to obtain a much-needed rest. Since her return she has been ailing from time to time, but her passing so suddenly was a profound shock to those who knew and loved her.

Candy, Smokes On Desert Isle; Nothing to Read

By E. P.

There is a little South Sea island washed by gentle surf which in the moonlight is as romantic as Joseph Conrad. A few palms slither in the breeze. The ocean is tepid, ideal for swimming The white sand stays warm all night.

But when the sun comes up it is hot. Only sea and sand and sparse, withered trees are to be seen. It is very dusty. The soldiers work hard all day in the dirt and heat. They get tired, tired of looking at each other and tired of seeing only sand and water. When they have two or three hours off, they smoke a cigarette or have a piece of candy—they've just received a shipment from the USO—but there is nothing else to do, nothing to read. And suddenly they long for a book as they have never wished for one before. They write home, "Please, please send us something to read."

Books are cumbersome, expensive and heavy but the USO has solved the problem by going to work and making scrap books. These books are light weight and cheap. They are made by patient volunteers who clip the hundred and one installments of current magazine serials and paste them into manila folders.

Carmel USO alone, under the leadership of Mrs. Charles C. Shepard, has completed sixty such books. Until this week the women have been sending them to a collection center in San Francisco from which they were shipped to various Army outposts but Tuesday they sent a dozen books direct to the little South Sea island which had written home its small request.

A score of Carmel women have gone to work at once to make more books for the soldiers. But the women need magazines. Two copies of every magazine are required for one scrap book.

The cutters have caught up on all the old issues but there is an immediate need for current copies of Colliers, Post, American, Liberty, Red Book and Cosmopolitan. The magazines should be left at the Carmel USO, Dolores and Eighth, or Mrs. Shephard should be notified of their whereabouts.

A score of women are engaged in the work of making books but of course more cutters and pasters can always be used and anyone with some time to give might also call Mrs. Shepard at Carmel 1260.

Nov. 5 Patricia Cunningham will open an exhibition of her paintings, including several portraits, at the Stendahl galleries in Los Angeles.

To the Editor of
The Pine Cone-Cymbal

Mr. Taylor declares in his communication of October 2 that "Congress is in disrepute now in the country. Away," he cries, "with dreamers and theorists. Give us hard-headed business-men instead, such as Nelson, Jeffers, Kaiser, Baruch and many others."

But just what is the matter with Congress? Let us diagnose the trouble before prescribing. Political sleep-walkers in our 11th District are suddenly and vocally very sure that the need of the hour is more business-men in Congress (especially guaranteed "hard-headed" ones, I suspect that these persons have not yet recovered from "Hate the New Deal" hangovers dating back as far as 1936 or even 1932. The accidents of politics have given them a Congressional candidate who happens to be a business man without previous political experience or interests. This has required the Republican management to unroll their campaign portrait of the "business-man," dust it off, and hold it up for the cheers of the faithful. In some instances the sight of it has suddenly reacted chemically with the hangovers just referred to — with a good deal of resulting heat and some synthetic enthusiasm. But this made-to-order delusion about the indispensible business-man is in conflict with a number of very obvious facts.

In the first place, let us note that the eminent businessmen cited as examples of what Congress urgently needs are administrators and production managers. They are not Congressmen, not legislators, and have never been and there is nothing to show that, if they had been, they necessarily would have been good ones. They have been called into their country's service like soldiers and they have cheerfully complied. They have been given more or less specific tasks to do and they have gone to work at them. But notice that their tasks have been set for them, not set by them. Congress and the Administration have defined these tasks. The formation of policies, the proportioning and timing of undertakings necessary for the national well-being in a given emergency require certain particular qualities of mind and temperament in those who have this responsibility. These qualities are quite definitely not those most needed for the carrying of such projects into effect. More often than not the man who has one of these two different sets of aptitudes in a high degree will prove disappointing when he attempts work calling for the other. The country has seen this truth illustrated in its recent history.

Notice, again, that the main hinderances in recent months which have delayed, confused and often frustrated the work of Congress have not come from members of the "pink" or "dreamer" type. On the contrary they have come from isolationist groups, from the farm-bloc, from the exponents of business as usual, from New Deal Haters, and from other very practical representatives in Congress of all manner of groups in the country preoccupied with the pursuit of their own immediate concerns and interests and lacking the courage to look, and the imagination to see, beyond these limits. If there is one single common quality in all these classes of persons, it is precisely that quality which the "business-man" cult are most rapturous in extolling—none other than the quality of "hard-headedness." For what is hard-headedness but resistance to the penetration of new ideas, of new views of familiar facts, of suggestions of future possibilities that are feared as unpleasant or alarming? More business-men in Congress? There are quite enough, of the average type already—certainly far too many of the ultra-hard headed variety. If we may take the word of the Baruch Committee on synthetic rubber for it (and Mr. Baruch, as we know, is high authority) there are too many hard - headed business-men now serving in subordinate capacities under those top administrators who are so much admired. I am myself persuaded that the cure for a discredited Congress is the introduction amongst its membership of a goodly number of men like George Outland—like Senators Elbert Thomas and Charles McNary—men with wide knowledge of the world, disinterested vision, skill in the analysis of issues and resources in devising expedients to meet them.

More than 100 years ago, there was a business failure in New Salem, Illinois. Both of the partners were negligent business men. When the venture "folded," the amiable junior-partner (who had been too free in granting credit and too lax in collections) was left "holding the bag," with nothing to show for it but a bundle of debts—which he refused to avoid by legal bankruptcy and spent the next fifteen years in repaying. His failure in business and his debts would surely have disqualified him for selection as Ford dealer or McCormick Reaper dealer in Springfield or Peoria. But Abraham Lincoln, who, on the testimony of his best friends, had no "money sense" and had no interest in the nature and uses of a budget, preferred the more leisurely profession of the law — in the intervals of which he was free to study closely the history of his country and to pore over the Constitutional arguments of Clay and Webster and Douglas, Calhoun, Hayne and Stephens. Thus it was that he was able to meditate and to define the policy regarding slavery on which he was elected President in 1860 and to give the Federal Government the Constitutional theory on which the Civil War was waged and won. Let us send a man of this statesmanlike bent to Congress from the 11th District.

H. W. Stuart.

The Pine Cone-Cymbal
To the Editors:

The Administration has changed its policy—haven't you heard? It has, it's true, been rather silent on the subject—but aren't you following? Mr. and Mrs. Voter, please do, it's very interesting.

Do you remember the days of the Rex Tugwells and Tommy Cockrans—expensive, experimental days for the American Tax Payer? Do you remember hearing Attorney General Jackson vilify Henry Ford and Big Business over the radio? The theorists were making us over, don't you remember?

Well, the war came on, and we weren't ready. They got things pretty well balled-up, in fact they were in a mess. Production couldn't get going with the theorists at the helm. The Administration grabbed at Knudsen, and the Roger Laphams, for the O.P.M. Later Nelson moved in. Things took on a new momentum. The start was good, but it had to be better, so Baruch and Jeffers and Donald Davis were called on. It took men of big business, men of experience and big caliber to get things rolling in the good old American way. The despised Henry Ford was getting his Willow Run plant into operation. Chrysler was making tanks. We were getting somewhere at last. What's the answer?

It's this — the theorists and brain trusters couldn't cut the mustard in this war of production. It was far beyond their scope.

So, after several years the American business man comes back into his own—the man who knows how to organize, and how to accomplish through experience and not through theory.

Mr. and Mrs. Voter, we have a war on our hands, a ghastly, consuming thing. Let's send men to Congress who get things done, and leave the Professors in their class rooms.

Yours sincerely,
Elizabeth Curran.

McAulay Finds Medical Unit Drill Success

Dr. M. McAulay, director of the Peninsula Emergency Medical Service expressed himself pleased with the C. D. medical drill held Sunday afternoon at the Church of the Wayfarer as a rehearsal for the All Unit Drill to be held here October 23 before Major A. Riordan Passes

Friends of Patrick Riordan are mourning his sudden death Oct. 8 at his Carmel home.

A graduate of Monterey High School, he was a member of an old Monterey family. Little more than a year ago he was married to Barbara Bryant of Carmel and they have made their home here since.

Pat Riordan was 26 years old. He is survived by his wife, his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Riordan of Monterey; a brother, Sgt. Jack Riordan; his twin brother, Lester of Monterey; a sister, Mary Lou; an aunt, Mrs. Louis Marquette of Monterey and an uncle, Al Myers of Santa Rita.

Final services were held Monday at Carmel Mission.

Bardy to Convention—

School Superintendent Otto Bardarson spent the early part of the week in Los Angeles attending the state convention of School authorities at the Ambassador Hotel. He conducted the Tuesday Evening "Information Please" session at which time questions that had been previously submitted were answered by a panel drawn for the purpose. Discussion included the problems of the primary schools, and the formation of a state-wide curriculum. About 1000 attended the convention.

Outstanding among his many services for Carmel was his work in codifying the city ordinances. Last act of public service was his conducting the case for the city in the Snack liquor license protest hearing to such good effect that the referee found in favor of the city in his recommendation to the State Board of Equalization.

This week, Council members and townspeople, missing him, commented not only on his legal service to the city but also on his feeling for and appreciation of the intangibles that make up the town character and his co-operation with the city council in pursuing a policy that would keep those intangibles alive.

He will probably be in Washington until the end of the war. Mrs. Hudson and their two children are to join him in several weeks.

Red Cross Bulletins

The Red Cross Needs Photographs

Good photographs help to tell the story of the American Red Cross to the people of America. For this purpose the Red Cross needs newsworthy pictures portraying its activities and artistic photographs symbolizing its spirit.

Calling All Cameras!

Photographers, attention! Would you like to show your patriotism and at the same time win a War Bond? Well, here's how. You can help supply this need by competing for the American Red Cross Photographic Awards. A total of $5,125 (maturity value) in War Bonds — specially donated by the Photographic Society of America and other friends of the Red Cross —is offered for prize winning photographs of Red Cross activities. Whether you are an amateur or professional, whether you are a civilian or in the armed services, here is an opportunity to put your camera to work in the war effort.

On the home front, our chapter is engaged in a wide variety of activities, many of them colorful and dramatic. There are the Nurses Aides at the Peninsula Community Hospital in their crisp blue aprons and caps; the surgical dressing unit up the Valley, rolling bandages and making dressings in spotless white with halo-like cap and long blue veil; the Motor Corps and Staff Assistants in trim, business like uniforms; the Canteen, the First Aiders, the Grey Ladies, the Production Staff, all in different dress and environment, all doing vital work, and all definitely photogenic. Go to your photographic dealer, Carmel Drug Store, Standiford's, Fortier's, Dolores Pharmacy, or Red Cross Headquarters or the Carmel Art Gallery and ask for contest rules, instructions and further information. The contest lasts three months, during which time a total of 108 prizes will be given. Surely you can win at least one of them! But even if you don't you will have had the satisfaction of doing a patriotic deed, and think of the fun you'll have! Peter Burk, president of the Camera Club, assures us of his whole hearted cooperation and interest and suggests that if enough good pictures are submitted we might have an exhibition in the camera room at the Art Gallery.

Mrs. W. S. McCabe, Chairman of First Aid of Carmel Chapter American Red Cross, is calling for volunteers to take the instructor's course in First Aid. Applicants must have completed Standard and Advanced First Aid courses to be eligible, and classes will be held Oct. 19 to 24 inclusive at 7:30 p.m. at the Church of the Wayfarer. There is a vital need for instructors in order to fulfill the new Red Cross project, the object of which is "a First Aider in every home," and all eligible persons are urged to volunteer for this work.

If you have not taken any First Aid instruction, don't forget to register for Standard classes on October 27th at the Church of the Wayfarer at 2 p.m. or 7:30 p.m. From this registration neighborhood classes will be formed for your convenience. Remember, this plan is for YOUR safety and protection.

Miss Jane Burritt, Chairman of Production, and members of her unit were both proud and pleased to receive communication commending them on their efforts and the products thereof from men who have benefitted by them. From the Chaplain of the 331st Engineers at Seattle, Washington, came the following letter:

"Both the Commanding Officer and myself want to take this most inadequate means to thank your chapter for the sweaters and socks given to our Regiment. We are most appreciative of this fine work done by the American Red Cross, and I am sure the enlisted men will be doubly appreciative when they face a colder climate. They will wear these articles with pride, knowing that a spirit of goodwill and best wishes come from those who knitted them.

Gratefully yours,
H. J. Wiant, Ch. Lt.

One of the men in the regiment, Private First Class Duque J. Bendenagel, also wrote a card thanking the chapter for a bag and sewing kit he had received.

Incidentally, the Production Unit has a quota of 500 of these kit bags to make and fill, and would be grateful for donations of large size needles to put in the sewing kits. So often people buy an assortment of needles and never use the larger ones, so if you are one of these or if you would like to buy some and donate them to a worthy cause, bring them to the Production Room at Carmel Red Cross Headquarters.

Outland Chosen Faculty Head at Santa Barbara

George Outland, democratic candidate in the Eleventh Congressional district, has been elected president of the faculty at Santa Barbara State College.

Born and brought up on a Ventura county ranch, Outland has been an instructor in the department of social sciences at the college. He won the democratic nomination for Congress in the new Monterey-San Luis Obispo-Santa Barbara-Ventura county district by defeating State Senator James J. McBride at the August primaries. At the Nov. 3 general election, Outland will be opposed by the Republican candidate, Al J. Dingeman, Oxnard automobile dealer.

75 Workers Here Volunteer Help On Chest Drive

Over 75 volunteer workers, both men and women, are doing their utmost to solicit everyone in Carmel between now and October 24 in the Community Chest drive.

Due to tire shortage, however, it may not be possible for the volunteers to reach everyone in the community, and citizens are asked to co-operate by bringing their contributions to the Community Chest Headquarters if they are not reached by solicitors.

The headquarters is located near the post office on Dolores street, two doors south of the Greyhound Bus depot. It is open all day, and volunteer helpers are on duty to explain the work of the community chest agencies and accept contributions.

Agencies of the Chest are: The Boy Scouts of Monterey and Pacific Grove, the Girl Scouts of the Monterey Peninsula, the School Milk Fund, the Army and Navy Recreation Center, the Salvation Army and the Catholic Associated Charities.

SUNSET SCHOOL NEWS

The scrap drive has been very successful in Carmel. It began a week ago last Monday and our pile has been growing every day. We are all working very hard to get more scrap than any other school on the Peninsula. The reward will be a chance for our representative to speak over KDON.

—Elton Clark, 6th Grade.

When I looked at our scrap pile I saw an old boiler. It used to boil water. Now it's going to make it hot for the Japs!

Jan Van Niel, 4th Grade.

I interviewed a little first grade boy about what he had brought for scrap. He said he'd brought his old tricycle 'cause his Daddy was in the navy.

—Ruth Van Niel, 6th Grade.

Why do we have a scrap pile? It is to help the men who are fighting for liberty. Some people don't know that a war is on. In order to fight we must have guns and bullets to do away with the enemy.

Our scrap pile will make bayonets, machine guns, anti-tank guns, hand grenades, incendiary bombs, and many other things. So give as much as you can to the Sunset School scrap pile!

—Linne Bardarson, 6th Grade.

Our Defense Stamp Booth

We have a Defense Stamp booth in Mrs. Uzzell's room. At the top is a picture of a Minute Man, and it says "Save" and "Defense Stamps." At the bottom is a picture of a large American Eagle holding an olive branch and five arrows. Harry Watson is manager of the booth. We sell stamps every Friday.

Here's another reason why we will keep 'em rolling!

On July 31, 5,137 Southern Pacific men were serving in our country's armed forces; on August 31, 5,836 men; and on September 15, 6,214. That's a lot of men from one organization!

To these men, the ideal of service is nothing new. Railroading has always inspired devotion to duty, and a conductor wears the stars on his sleeve just as proudly as a sailor wears his "hash marks."

We miss these men badly, for we worked side by side with them. We also miss their long training and experience in railroad work—training and experience that just can't be replaced overnight. But we're going to do our best to back these men up, wherever they may be.

We who are left have the job of getting troops, equipment and war materials over the line to the places where they're needed, when they're needed. And though the traffic peak in the next few months will be the greatest we have ever faced, we promise our men in the service that we will not let them down.

So if you see an extra glint of determination in an engineer's eye, or a passenger representative on the road night and day accompanying troop trains, or a section hand swinging his pick as if the ballast were full of Japs—you'll know why they have a personal interest in this war, and a personal determination to do their part to keep 'em rolling.

The War Bonds you buy now will help pay for one of those swell new post-war automobiles.

CABBAGES AND THINGS

By PLANTSMITH

In wandering away from the garden path last week I upset a one-year-old routine of so-called "gardening" articles. But now, what with my prospective early entry into the field of machinery of war, I find it difficult to write about rutabagas or salvia and such. I might have thyme for a garden theme but my heart just ain't in it.

There's one thing been bothering me an awful lot lately and it smells like politics. Now usually I'm a regular Caspar Milquetoast when it comes to talking—and I don't mean arguing—about candidates. But I wouldn't more than whisper a statement in this campaign. I'm too bewildered. One side keeps dinging away at the opposition's candidate, and the other side is simply outlandish in lambasting the vice versa candidate. If they are each as bad as the opposing side says they are I'm going to vote a write-in for Mickey Mouse; if they are as good as their backers say they are I'm going to vote for both of 'em. But how's a person going to know until after they get elected? I give up.

The other day I lugged a whole armload of good copper — it was usable and not scrap — down to the scrap collection box. And then I walked into the Postoffice to buy a stamp. Now to save the FBI a lot of needless sleuthing I hereby give notice that if the large sheet of heavy copper adorning the stamp window in the postoffice turns up missing it may be found in the metal scrap box in the vacant next-door lot. I made one attempt with a small pocket screw driver but found it too firmly fastened. If a crow-bar fails then surely a sharp chisel will dislodge it. It wouldn't be theft—only a case of robbing Peter to pay Paul. Or, to modernize the phrase, I might say "strip Pat Hurley of his ornate vestments so Don Nelson can copperize his war machines." Besides, a thirty-cent piece of pressed wallboard would last through several durations and there wouldn't be any risk of contracting copper poisoning by resting your hands and face on it while waiting for stamps and stuff.

There are several interesting angles to the scrap drive. I'm not betting on a winner but am nevertheless on edge from wondering whether the city truck or the highschool truck arrives here first to salvage my little 300-odd pound pile of carefully garnered bitments. It will be just my luck to have a Monterey school truck pull up and clean up the pile in an unguarded moment. Those Monterey lads are aggressive, to say the least. Oh, well! it all goes into the same scrap anyhow.

I'm beginning to wish I had left for the shipyards a couple of weeks ago. By waiting until now I'll be reporting for work during the scrap drive, and can just hear the boys at union headquarters say "will youse guys look at what the scrap drive turned up."

There's a certain prospective shipyard widow in this neighborhood who will, I hope, miss her daily scrap after I leave. But I'm trying to make everything as easy as possible. Today I broke her in on the south end of a two-man saw so she and daughter will know how to operate that. And I've oiled up the wheelbarrow and sharpened the axe. But now I'm beginning to wonder if I've gone too far in this self-reliance business. Will I come back after this war is over and find that as a useful-around-the-home fixture I'm just so much post-war scrap.

POETRY

DEATH

A stone tree
Growing against a hyacinth dawn
Without the untruth of a single stone leaf—
Beautiful as Praxiteles might carve
Using night for his composition.

—ORION DEPLEDGE.

PREMONITION:

A white moth
flutters its delicate wings
upon the gold chrysanthemums, and then
like a breath blown softly, its white fragility becomes one with the pale sky . . . .

What is the meaning of this exquisite visitation?
Could it be that I too will soon be but a breath
merging into the Stream of the Infinite?

I move slowly through my garden,
lost in thoughtful contemplation:
A brown leaf
flutters to the grass!

—ELEANOR ALLEN.

GARDENS AFTER RAIN

Where then was all this loveliness concealed?
The world was parched and dull but yesterday—
How could these dusty haunts of autumn yield
The sudden wealth of gleaming they display?
The barest twig is looped with crystal gems—
The ground is pungent as a goodly fruit—
October buds have raised their drooping stems
Secure in faith of blossom, quick of root.

O dear and secret freshness of the earth
Why does the human spirit brook despair?
From birth to death and back again to birth
The atmosphere of love is always there,
Waiting a change of heart to bring it forth
Fragrant to breathe as this rain-scented air.

—DORA HAGEMEYER.

TO MARSHAL ROMMEL IN EGYPT

Beside the Sphinx, the dust of time lies deep
On conquerors; below, the tyrant kings
Are kin to slaves in equity of sleep.
Now your Napoleanic legion brings
Another marshal for the desert dead:
Ten thousand Caesars slumber under sand,
A tarnished crown upon each broken head,
A rusted scepter in each rotten hand.

Old Carthage is your garden without bloom:
Despite your strategies, you yet must learn
That riddle Cleopatra in her tomb
Has answered for all conquerors in turn—
The might of every Pharaoh is hid
With him, beneath each ruined pyramid.

CARMEL MUSIC SOCIETY

By DENE DENNY

The Carmel Music Society's Membership Committee, headed by Mrs. Kathrine MacFarland Howe, has spent many hours getting out the circular announcing the Society's Sixteenth Annual Season, which is reaching the Monterey Peninsula Music Lovers this week. Mrs. Rush Wallace, Mrs. Louise Dexter, Miss Flora Stewart, Mrs. A. M. Allan are among those who have put in days of time checking lists, addressing and mailing, in order that the Carmel Music Society may carry on "as usual."

The most attractive circular announces four of the world's great attractions: Carmen Amaya and her Company of Gypsy Dancers and Musicians on Sunday afternoon, November 15; Edward Kilenyi, the extraordinary pianist, on Sunday afternoon, January 17; Roland Hayes, Negro tenor, on Sunday afternoon, February 14; and the Belgian Piano Quartet, on Saturday evening, March 27.

Carmen Amaya is probably the most sensational attraction ever to come to Carmel. From all reports, she leaves her audiences in a frenzy of excitement. The New York World Telegram, following Amaya's recital in New York last season, carried headlines reading, "Carmen Amaya's Dancing Sets Fire to Carnegie Hall," the article going on to liken the gypsy performance to the landing of an "incendiary bomb."

Carmen Amaya has with her a dancing partner, Antonio Triana, who is of pure Spanish descent and tradition. Also with her is the brilliant guitarist, Subicas, and her father, sisters and cousins (whom "she reckons by the dozens"), who alternately dance, play guitar and sing.

Edward Kilenyi, pianist, has a "Philadelphia story." Born of Hungarian parents in Philadelphia, he was taken as a child of five weeks old, to Budapest. There he became the only private pupil of the distinguished Dohnanyi, who declared the boy to be a genius. His debut was made in his early teens, and at 26, Edward Kilenyi returned to America, giving his first American recitals in Philadelphia with triumphant success. At his recital in the Hollywood Bowl two years ago, Carl Bronson of the Los Angeles Evening Herald and Express, wrote, "Another Paderewski was discovered in Hollywood Bowl last night when Edward Kilenyi . . . took last night's audience by storm. ."

Roland Hayes is too well known for his beautiful voice and commanding artistry to need identification for the ticket-buying public.

The Belgian Piano Quartet is a unique organization, which came into being in 1927, in the home of the great Eugene Ysaye. Joseph Wetzels, cello, is head of the organization. Mombaerts, pianist; Rahier, violinist; Foidart, violinist make the ensemble. They were all four born and educated in Belgium, and have built up a quartet of rarely beautiful unity and tonal balance.

Season ticket reservations can now be made by telephoning Mrs. Carr Thatcher. The Carmel Music Society Box Office will open in the Carmel Land Company on November 2.

The Pine Cone Cymbal has been fortunate in securing Rachel Morton as a reviewer for the musical events of the Carmel Music Society's season.

Miss Morton is a concert and opera singer of international reputation. Since her retirement here with her husband, Jaffrey Harris, she has sung occassionally for Carmel audiences both in concert and as a solist in Bach Festival performances.

Her knowledge of music gives authority to her criticism and her deep appreciation makes for warmth in her writing.

Her first review will be of the Edward Kilenyi concert. —W. C.

Of Men and Beasts

By PHIL NESBITT

Of all the commentators shouting down the air lanes, during these abnormally hectic times, I can think of but one who has what might be called a "little streak of merriment." This man is Boake Carter. Whereas Swing, Kaltenborn, Heater, Lewis, Hillman all have a sepuchral tonal quality, like Cotton Mather pronouncing the last rites over the corpse of a Purtitan. Especially do Kaltenborn, Swing and Heater have this moribund note of panic-bound despair. In fact, they are likened to Poe's Raven, sitting in the open window, discoursing on doom in a lovely eloquent croak.

Fashions in personalities will, in the future, become more brief upon the radio, than they did in newspapers (quickly becoming a thing of the past). Horace Greeley and Mark Twain lingered for several decades in the news annals of the nation. In a couple of more years, the whole new flock of radio personalities will have ousted the present headliners. The impact of things borne of the future will be increasingly felt.

Recently my wife and I made a trek out of the Highlands to visit with that actually magnificent personality, William Ritschel and his eccentric though happily charming wife, Nora. Every one calls him Willum. Now, Willum is a fine fellow. His philosophy is calm, natural and realistic. He is a lover of beauty in the truest most simple sense imagineable. Serenity of mind guides his hand as he paints. If we could all attain what Willum has so easily, in this world there would be no vain strife, no chaos, no waste. Nora, or Mrs. Ritschel, is tall and in a real fashion, a very charming lady. She has what might be called a life long fixation upon the literal aspects of ageless romance. This takes the form, sometimes of superb little pieces of poetry, or sometimes clay modeling of vivid heads. There are several fluffy small and friendly kittens underfoot. That large stone and square castle which stands sentinel on the point opposite the Highlands Inn, is the studio. One big room. A feeling not of the land hereabounts fills it, but of the studios of Paris or Vienna. It's gloomy and cool. Willum is actually a fine painter. His works of art have found their way into many a significant gallery. I like Willum and Nora.

Undoubtedly the oddest, the most whimsical and the most ardent conversation to occur in my experience was one which took place upon a transpacific liner about to dock at Yokohama, Japan. It was during that void of activity, that uncertain span of time previous to landing and after the inspection of the port officers.

A man, much in appearance like the typical German army captain (a roll of flesh just above the collar and shaven pate, and large, eager blue eyes), a New York advertising man and myself, were seated around one of the smoking room tables. The subject of conversation consisted of three elements: 'American women' from the German's point of view; 'Javanese women' and the time element or 'curfew' as it takes place in such localities as Singapore, San Francisco and London. The German fellow had lived in Batavia for sixteen years. He was married.

Not speaking English too well, retarded the speech of the German. As you are aware, he was doing most of the talking. The New Yorker and I were laughing. The conversation of which I speak was much as follows:

"Ah! (with prolonged emphasis) Zee American women! Ah! Verry fine; very beautiful. But twelve o'clock iss finish!" We were speaking of the German's brief visit in San Francisco, and the fact that the nighttime gayety ceased at twelve o'clock.

The talk then shifted to Singapore. The German said: "Verry bootiful girls in Malay; verry bootiful. Ten o'clock iss finish. But Batavia . . . but Java. Ah! First you ask the boy for a bootiful girl. Then when he iss bring her you say, 'No', bring me another." He explained that this was because the first girl was always a relative of the boy. The two would split the reward and go their ways, whereas the second girl was likely to be even more beautiful, even more seductive and in no way related to a bell boy. Then, the German closed his simple dissertation upon his experience with San Francisco, London and Javenese and Malay girls with a melancholy sigh; his eyes grew watery with a mortal sadness and he said: "Ten o'clock iss finish!"

Children Help in Community Chest Drive for Funds

The Junior Community Chest which was organized only last year is again included in the Comunity Chest Campaign for 1943. Headed by Mrs. Hugh Dormody the nine elementary and high schools on the Monterey Peninsula are participating in the Junior Community Chest campaign.

Last year between four and five hundred dollars was donated to the Chest by the students in the various schools according to Mrs. Dormody. "This year the children are asked, whenever possible, to earn the money they donate to the Chest. Some of the schools also are planning an essay contest which stimulates their interest and increases their knowledge of the Community Chest activities."

Mrs. Dormody tells the children to give what they can. Every penny, nickel and dime counts. "It isn't the amount, but the spirit of co-operation in which it is given. Their contribution shows that they have community kindness. And they all know how iportant it is to "HELP THE OTHER FELLOW."

All of the Junior Community Chest campaigns in the schools are being handled by the students themselves. "I have been very glad to help them with their campaign. This means a personal call at each school delivering envelopes, red feathers, the symbol of the Community Chest, followed by a special talk to the various student bodies regarding their responsibilities as citizens of tomorrow to the Community Chest."

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

ORCHESTRA SCORES

Sunday, Oct. 4, marked the end of weeks of diligent practice on the part of those who play in Carmel High School's orchestra. On this day the Carmel High School "Open House" was held. The orchestra offered a selection from Carmen, which was very well received by the parents and teachers attending this gathering. A marked improvement was shown by the orchestra as a whole in both technique and cooperation. Many compliments were received and Mr. Bartlett seemed very

TOO MANY PEOPLE ARE STILL TRAVELING ON WEEK ENDS—SAYS ODT
WASHINGTON, (AP) — Too many people still are traveling on week-ends by bus and train.
Sounding this complaint today, the office of Defense Transportation said that a further shift to mid-week travel of at least 8 per cent was necessary to eliminate the peak week-end travel load.
The report showed heaviest ticket sales on Saturday, when an average of 21 per cent of the week's entire sales take place. Sunday is next with 16 per cent.

ting some of their own medicine, both from the Serbs and from anti-

THE OFFICE OF DEFENSE TRANSPORTATION states that week end travel must be reduced. Only so much transportation is available, and war service must come first. Transportation facilities are being stretched to the limit. New buses are difficult to obtain. Unnecessary bus service is being eliminated to meet the ever growing demands of the armed forces, war workers, and others who must travel to help win the war. Hundreds of our men, who used to serve you, are now in the military service (and we're proud of them) creating a serious shortage of trained personnel.

The time has come when every American must realize that pleasure travel is a peacetime luxury.

Greyhound is committed to the vital job of providing one service only—essential transportation.

If You MUST Travel, Follow These Suggestions:

- ★ Ride on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays—leave week ends for men in uniform and war workers
- ★ Get tickets and information well in advance.
- ★ Take as little baggage as possible.

The Demise of "PALMER'S SMOKE SHOP"

Carmel has lost, alas,
A charm spot it once had,
A little smoke shop
Has closed its doors by gad!

Pop Palmer, as he's called
By those who know him well,
Is a genial sort of fellow,
In fact we think he's swell.

This closing up of business
Has done us little harm,
Carmel will always be Carmel,
A little spot of charm.

First Aid, Home Nurse Need Finds Hearty Response in P.-T.A.

By MRS. PETER FERRANTE

Mrs. N. A. Gorman, chairman of the P.T.A. First Aid Committee, had an excellent report for the Carmel P.T.A. Board at its meeting at Sunset School Tuesday afternoon.

Many parents responded to a questionnaire sent out last month asking for an expression of interest in First Aid and Home Nursing classes. The committee is now announcing a practice group for those holding a First Aid certificate. This group will meet every Wednesday from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Church of the Wayfarer on Lincoln St. between Ocean and Seventh. October 27 is enrollment day for all those who want to take the First Aid course. At 2 in the afternoon and again at 7:30 in the evening Mrs. McCabe will be at the Church of the Wayfarer to register candidates for the course and on the basis of this enrollment a number of classes will be formed to meet in different neighborhoods, easing the transportation problem.

Mr. Bardarson reports that Junior First Aid courses will be given for both boys and girls at the High School. The P.T.A. committee is making a real contribution toward the Red Cross objective of a First Aider in every home, and better yet, two First Aiders!

Mr. E. M. Seifert, the new P.T.A. president, reported on his attendance at the Civilian Defense meeting Monday evening. There are jobs in the Red Cross and Civilian Defense organizations for all who will volunteer their services. In fact there is a desperate need for workers to fill these jobs. More shelters for school children along their routes between home and school must be provided. Civilian Defense wants one in every block. Here is a project with appeal to which every P.T.A. member may give his eager cooperation.

Youthful Soprano Delights Audience

had not been lavish enough, the little singer is endowed with an infectious personality and emotion of deep and noble impulse. Her diction was clear and understandable in all four languages in which she sang.

What I cannot understand is how so much artistry, musical intelligence and vocal control was acquired in 26 short years.

Mona Paulee was born in Canada of a Russian mother and a French father which explains something of the glorious rich quality of her voice and the vivacity of her temperament.

The program was staggering in difficulty and would have taxed any mature artist (there were 3 arias listed). But our young heroine was fresh as a daisy at the end and sang most generously four encores. It is significant of her success, that at the end of the long program, not one single person moved in his seat, and only was the audience persuaded to leave after the final singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

I predict a great career for Mona Paulee, especially in opera. When I heard her sing four Wagner songs last summer, I glowed within, for what was in store for us at the Metropolitan Opera when Mona Paulee lights anew the burning music that is Richard Wagner's.

Mr. Milne Carnley played two solos that were much enjoyed and furnished most sympathied accompaniment.

Laughs Abound In Roz Russell MacMurray Film

It's possible to get a laugh out of this topsy-turvy world, after all. If you doubt it just hie yourself to the Carmel Theater where "Take A Letter, Darling" starts Sunday for a three day run, starring Rosalind Russell and Fred MacMurray.

As the successful business woman who tries, unsuccessfully, to give love the business, the beautiful Rosalind Russell, head of a million-dollar advertising agency, hires MacMurray to placate jealous wives while she goes after their husbands' accounts. It must be told,to MacMurray's credit, that he doesn't like the job. But, having acquired the quaint habit of eating, and reluctant to break himself of it, he swallows his pride and does as he's told.

Robert Benchley is in another funny characterization as Rosalind's silent partner and MacDonald Carey, erstwhile leading man to Gertrude Lawrence in "Lady In the Dark," appears in the film as a tobacco magnate who hates women. But, not for long, after Rosalind falls gracefully to the floor of his apartment — in a reasonable facsimile of a dead faint — attempting to sell him a bill of her own advertising goods. With Constance Moore and Cecil Kellaway in other supporting roles, "Take A Letter, Darling" is one of the gayest Hollywood offerings to come out of the west in recent months.

"Fantasia" Returns

Added to the Carmel Theater's excellent program for the week is Walt Disney's musical cartoon masterpiece, "Fantasia," returning to the peninsula in answer to the request of many who have already viewed this technicolor fantasy but who would see it again and again.

"Fantasia" plays Wednesday and Thursday evenings, October 21 and 22,

Social Circles to be Formed by Women

By MRS. GRACE HOWDEN

For the purpose of fostering community service, social fellowship and mutual acquaintance of the friends and members of The Church of the Wayfarer, a committee met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Dr. James Crowther to plan for the organization of six "Circles" representing the various sections of Carmel.

Miss Agnes L. Williston is the chairman of organization of these "Circles,"each to adopt a name by which it will become known. A volunteer leader will be appointed to arrange for a meeting on the third Tuesday of each month in the afternoon at the home of some member of the "Circle."

The Church of the Wayfarer is non-denominational, welcoming to its services as well as to these "Circles" anyone desiring to share in its benefits and its work, regardless of religious belief.

Each "Circle" will plan for whatever program it wishes. Each person will bring to the monthly meeting her sewing or knitting. After opening with prayer the program may include a travel talk, a book review, or music etc.

Leaders of the "Circles" will be announced within a few days as well as the places of meeting for the first time, on Tuesday afternoon, November 17th.

THE SCRAP DRIVE

J. P. Gilbert, chairman of the Salvage Committee for Civilian Defense, has only words of enthusiastic praise for the manner in which the Scrap collection was conducted by the High School students last Saturday.

"In the last three months," says Mr. Gilbert, "the collection of scrap in Carmel has amounted to around 14 tons. And it is expected that there will be a steady flow of scrap coming in now that people are becoming more and more aware of the importance of scrap and alert to the odds and ends lying about the house and gardens that heretofore have been overlooked.

"This scrap is sold to the junkmen because they are the only ones having facilities for sorting, classifying and transporting the metal to the steel mills. The average price is about $5.00 a ton. Every cent of this money is used for Civilian Defense expense. Since the office of Civilian Defense was created about $4000 has been spent in sign, equipment, gas masks, Red Cross requirements, printing and incidentals.

"The first revenue came from the sale of paper. Later the quantity of paper received became excessive and could not be distributed so paper was abandoned.

"The latest government demands are for silk and nylon hosiery and for typewriters. All available typewriters manufactured after 1935 and in good repair will be purchased by the government. Nor have we at this time any means of disposing of the worn hosiery. In the meantime, you are asked to save your silk and nylon hose—not cotton—and your good typewriters, not portables, until you are called upon to turn them in.

"The sale of scrap to individuals which was permitted for a time, has now been stopped. Certain misunderstandings arose in regard to these individual sales although the money received from them went to the Civilian Defense, so it was thought best to stop them and to sell only to the junkmen."

Although Mr. Gilbert is greatly pleased with the way the people of Carmel have responded to the scrap drive, he would like them to observe more fully certain rules which will save expenses and cut down time and energy in disposing of the scrap.

In the past collections have been made with trucks generously furnished by Keith Evans and Fremont Rider. But Mr. Gilbert feels that much tire wear and gas could be saved if people would bring in their own small stuff.

"Every time you go to the postoffice," says Mr. Gilbert, "gather up a bundle of scrap and drop it in the bins placed in the lot next to the postoffice. And do look at the labels and drop your scrap in the right bins. Do not bring tin cans. And if you still drive your car, bring in your own heavy pieces and those of your neighbor."

Mr. Gilbert, who is the gentlest of men, admits that sometimes he gets very mad. He cites one case where a matron telephoned for a truck, although she is the owner of a spanking, chauffeur-driven automobile. "What! Get my nice car dirty?" she exclaimed indignantly when it was suggested that she bring in her own scrap. But she did it eventually.

Later on the government will provide a truck for these collections but at the moment it is necessary that everybody pitch in and lug scrap, thus saving money for Civilian Defense, which of course is everybody's protection and everybody's business.

The Carmel territory includes Carmel Valley, with C. R. Oden in local charge, Pebble Beach and the Monterey Peninsula Country Club under Col. R. R. Wallace and the Big Sur with Russell Field in charge, all working under the chairman, Mr. Gilbert.

ALL UNIT DRILL

As October 23 approaches, the day of the big All Unit Civilian Defense Drill, the OCD reiterates its insistence that all members of all units be prepared to make a first rate showing before Major A. Matheney of San Francisco and representatives of the California Council of Defense and of the 9th Civilian Defense Regional office who will be present.

The personnel of all Units is expected to be on hand at 7 p.m. sharp on October 23. There will be no siren, no blackout.

Interested spectators are requested to do their watching in their own neighborhoods. It is important that no crowds congregate at any particular spot. There will be action all over town so that by staying quietly at home you will quite likely be able to see some part of the drill function.

New dimout orders have been issued, effective not later than October 25. Watch next week's paper for full details.

At the meeting of the precinct leaders of the Women's Auxiliary, Civilian Defense, plans were made for the organization of neighborhood classes in First Aid. This is vital. Carmel, as well as most communities, is in desperate need of trained First Aiders. For the protection of yourself and family, in peace times as well as now, you should learn to give proper first aid in an emergency. Doctors and nurses are leaving in a steady stream for service in the Army, Navy or in defense industries. Trained men and women are needed in every neighborhood. If you can possibly take the training you should do so. Elderly people and the handicapped should avail themselves of the opportunity to help themselves.

Precinct leaders will canvas your neighborhood with an official questionnaire which you are urged to read carefully and fill in.

The P.T.A. has already started a neighborhood plan of First Aid classes so that if you are a member of that organization you will probably enlist with it, but if you do not belong to P.T.A. please cooperate with the precinct leaders of Civilian Defense

It is important that every neighborhood develop a complete working unit in all matters pertaining to Civilian Defense for its own protection and self defense. Army wives are particularly asked to cooperate with their neighborhood interests, even though they may expect to have only a temporary residence in Carmel. This community association can and no doubt, will have far-reaching effects of friendliness and self protection.

The Junior Red Cross got under way with the scrap-metal drive October 5 under the leadership of LaVerne De Ameral and Ben Stilwell.

Tuesday, notices were issued to the citizens of Carmel, asking for their cooperation in preparing the precious salvage for collections, and Saturday, October 10, trucks from the high school picked up about 3 tons of scrap-metal in front of Carmel houses.

The Carmel High School is cooperating wholeheartedly with the salvage plan, and is organizing various committees to publicize and stress the great importance of this drive.

Our country is in great need of scrap-metal that you may have in your attic or garage, so please cooperate with us. You will be doing a great service to yourself and your country.

—Stanley Ewig.

Grace Penha Leaves for Brazil

Grace Penha, popular tall, brown-eyed, sophomore, who has been very active in Carmel High's social and class organizations, left Carmel last Thursday morning for Rio de Janiero, Brazil.

She and her mother drove to Los Angeles, where they spent a few days; from there they went by train to Miami, Florida. From there they planned to go by plane to Brazil.

Grace's mother is working for the United States government in strategic materials available in South America.

They will live in Rio de Janiero for the duration of the war.

Grace will probably have quite a hard time of it at first. She is going to an American school, but she will have to learn to speak fluent Portuguese like her mother.

Mrs. Penha said that in Brazil people sleep on mattresses and pillows that feel like they contain either rocks or sand. She also said that the food here has no flavor. It is to be hoped that Grace likes highly seasoned food.

We all hope that she has a marvelous trip, but that she will come back to Carmel soon.

—Carolyn Cory.

HELP U.S. SCRAP DRIVE

Our collection of scrap metal last Saturday, was a success, but we are anxious to increase our scrap pile up at the high school. Our trucks will make another collection, Saturday, Oct. 17. We will appreciate your cooperation in putting your scrap metal out where we can easily pick it up. If you have a big pile of scrap or know where there is some, call Carmel 1343 and leave the information for us.

—Stanley Ewig.

RECORD DRIVE

Approximately 200 records have been collected by our students, to date, showing that the Carmel U.S.O. drive for records is off to a running start.

Those in the lead for the prize of Tschowski's Nutcracker Suite, contribution by Jim Cooke, are as follows:

Andrea Del Monte who brought 91 records, Betty Powell, who gave 26 and Connie David with 23.

Other students with records to their credit are: Jo An Thorn, Ann Casati, Mary Jane Reel, Mast Wolfson, Orville Mead, Alicia Orcutt, Helen Passadori, Rosalie Roberts and Jean Podmore. Teachers who are also competing are Mrs. Hazel Senor and Mr. Donald M. Craig.

The Carmel U.S.O. needs phonograph records that you or your friends have no use for any longer. They can use any type — new, old, cracked, chipped, or broken, Edison, Columbia, Victor, Decca, all makes according to Mr. Jim Cooke who is doing a grand job for the U.S.O. In his efforts to carry on and provide entertainment for the soldiers in this area, he has asked that Carmel contribute just as many phonograph records as possible. —Jeannie Viljoen.

FOUR DANCES

The student body of Carmel High School will give four evening dances this year. One will be the traditional Winter Ball.

It is possible that the Leader's Club and the Block "C" Club will give one dance apiece and, of course, the Juniors will give the Seniors a Junior-Senior Prom.

All evening dances will be held at Sunset school.

Due to dim-out conditions, all class affairs will be held in the afternoon between the hours of four and six unless special permission is granted by the Principal and the school legislature.

This year promises to be a lot of fun socially for all the students.

—Rosemary Powell.

Masses Sunday at 8 and 11 o'clock.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH

Next Sunday: 8 a.m. the service of the Holy Communion. At 9:30 a.m. the Church School with classes for young people of all ages. At 11:00 a.m. the Service of Morning Prayer with message by the Rector, Rev. C. J. Hulsewe. Miss Frances M. Young, director of Christian Education in the Diocese of California will speak in connection with Christian Advance Sunday. Offertory Anthem: "God So Loved the World"—Gounod. The full vested choir will participate in this service under the leadership of Arch W. Leonard with Alice Lee Keith at the organ. Organ numbers will include, "O for the Wings of a Dove", Mendelssohn; a Prelude by Schultz and a postlude by Merkel. Come and join us in worship in our House of Prayer for All People.

CHURCH OF THE WAYFARER

In connection with the United Christian Advance, to be observed on Monterey Peninsula next Sunday, Dr. James E. Crowther will conduct a special service for youth at the Church of the Wayfarer in the morning at eleven o'clock. The sermon will present the story of a modern Arctic explorer, Fridtjof Nansen. He was great in each one of a dozen fields of achievement, but greatest of all as a man and a world-citizen. That suggests the sermon theme: "His Character Was His Career."

Adults as well as youth will gather inspiration from the career of this great Norwegian. A program of organ music by Cesar Franck will be played by Margaret Sherman Lea, as follows: "Allegretto," "Andante," "Cantabile," and "Allegro."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Doctrine of Atonement" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, October 18, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. The Golden Text will be: "John seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world," (John 1:29).

Other Bible citations will include: "Let not sin therefore reign in your mortal body, that ye should obey it in the lusts thereof. Neither yield ye your members as instruments of unrighteousness unto sin; but yield yourselves unto God, as those that are alive from the dead, and your members as instruments of righteousness unto God," (Romans 6: 12, 13).

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following passage from the Chritian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "If Truth is overcoming error in your daily walk and conversation, you can finally say, 'I have fought a good fight . . . I have kept the faith,' because you are a better man. This is having our part in the at-one-ment with Truth and Love," (p. 21).

Sunset School Notes

Sunset School each Friday. Each boy and girl tries to bring money so he can buy a stamp. We know that every stamp or bond will help win this war. Each week the room with the most purchasers wins a Victory "V" stamp. Mrs. Lockwood's room won last week with 89 per cent of the pupils buying.

—Dan Holmes, 6th Grade.

Fire Prevention

As most of us know last week was Fire Prevention Week. Fire is very useful and we would have a hard time without it, but it also can be very destructive. Many beautiful forests and wild creatures have been destroyed because of it. We all can help prevent fires by not throwing matches about, by putting out camp fires after a picnic and in many other ways. So let's all help to make Fire Prevention Week a success all year by doing our bit to help prevent fires.

—Patricia Timbers, 6th Grade.

The fire station is a two-story building. On the first floor is located the Red Cross Ambulance, fire trucks, two First Aid kits, a nine-man surf board, and many other things. There are from 11 to 45 fire districts in Carmel. They have a good club room on the second floor for the firemen.

—Leslie Bracisco, 6th Grade.

The firemen had a contest. We took papers home. The papers had questions on them about preventing fires. The first room to get all the papers back won a prize. We won the prize.

We went to visit the fire house, and rode on the fire truck. Mr. Leidig talked to us about how to prevent fires. We saw a fireman go down the pole. Before we came back, they gave us each two 10c war stamps!

Whealen Koontz, 2nd Grade.

Mrs. Uzzell's class gave a program last Friday. It was about the Pre-Historic Period. The children gave reports about the cavemen, the pre-historic animals, the inventions and discoveries of the early men. Mrs. Duygou's 6th grade and the parents were invited. It was a very nice program.

—Bill Williams, 6th Grade.

Ann Wales drew a picture of the Great Ice Age, which we were studying in our Social Studies. The picture shows a mastodon which had been trapped by a glacier and a man who was going to get the food and skin for clothing.

—Jackie Briggs, 6th Grade.

Mrs. Kohner's second graders are honored by having such a wonderful classmate as the new one that is in their class now. His name is General Douglas MacArthur. But I will tell you a secret! He's really a doll! He was brought to school by a little boy named Eddie Soberanes. Douglas is liked very much by the children, and he is a very good student.

—Patricia Timbers, 6th Grade.

The Kitten

A kitten has a mitten,
And the pinkest tongue!
And a little midget mew—
The cutest you ever knew.

—Ward Dolan, 1st Grade.

News from Harbolt Boys

Mrs. A. F. Harbolt received letters this week from her two sons, Thomas and Adrian, who are in the Air Force and Navy respectively.

At Moody Field, Ga., Thomas has just been promoted to the rank of sergeant while Adrian, now a first class seaman, is on an island south of the equator, somewhere in the Pacific Ocean.

Adult School

Three new classes for homemakers, to be conducted by Mrs. Helen E. Poulsen are announced this week. Two of them will be nutrition classes, one meeting on Thursday evenings at 7:30 o'clock, the other meeting on Monday and Thursday mornings at 9:30 o'clock. Both will use the standard American Red Cross nutrition course and will lead to certificates for those who meet the requirements.

The third will be a class in War Time Cookery and Buying, dealing with rationing, use of substitutes, and stretching the war time food dollar. Demonstrations and discussion will alternate with practice. Latest information from government and private sources will offer any practical ways of solving the daily problem of making the budget meet war time prices without sacrificing food values. This class will meet on Tuesday morning at 9:30, the first meeting being on October 20.

All of these classes will meet in the lunchroom at Sunset School. Mrs. Poulsen is devoting much of her time to these classes including a sewing class which meets on Tuesday evening. She spent the summer at the University of California training especially for this particular work. Her classes are always popular, people find a ready welcome whether they attend all the sessions or only a few. Practical and helpful hints are numerous, and actual practice in doing is emphasized. There are no fees of any kind.

The importance of nutrition, particularly in war times, is stressed by federal and state authorities. The desire of the government is that every family should have the benefit of a trained nutritionist.

FOLK DANCING

In response to many requests the Carmel Adult School announces a class in folk dancing, for Thursday evenings at 7:30 o'clock in the Gym at Sunset School. Mrs. Ann B. Uzzell will be in charge. Objectives include physical fitness in war time, rhythm, grace and balance, and pleasant recreation.

Shriner Canvas Enchants Hoover; Show at Box Now

By PATRICIA CUNNINGHAM

When Herbert Hoover was making his last political campaign, he happened to stop with some friends in Fresno. They had in their possession one of the Shriner desert paintings. Mr. Hoover was very much taken with it. After he made his local speech, he was asked by his friends what he would like to do the rest of the evening. He told them the thing he'd like the very most to do was to return to their house and look some more at the painting.

Well—this little anecdote is an excellent commentary on the paintings on view at the Sketch Box—much better than a dry critical analysis could possibly be. It is intriguing to think what the effect on Mr. Hoover would be of a number of these paintings all at once—if he was so impressed by only one.

The fact that their subject matter concerns the glamorous Palm Springs country and is presented in chromatic compositions employing every device of dramatic and sensuous color manipulation—this is no doubt the reason for their special type of appeal.

So—these paintings are the record of a life devoted to the passionate love of the desert landscape as a painter trained in the traditions of the 19th century French Academy would see it and feel it. Highly illustrative subject matter and virtuosity in the handling of pigment show him to be a worthy disciple of his Parisian masters, namely Laurens, Bonnat, Duran and Constant.

Every aspect of time and season is explored by the artist in order to set forth his fulsome interpretations of the desert scenery. There are redly glowing sunsets over jagged mountains and sweeping stretches of sand. There are cold blue greens of early morning skies reflected on the stark relentless peaks. There are the hardy, fantastic shapes of cactus and sagebrush, set forth with all the enthusiasm of an unlimited palette.

This exhibit will continue until October 23, and the gallery will be open from 9:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. week days, Sunday until 8:00 p.m. The exhibit is sponsored by Mrs. Helen H. Getsinger who inherited the collection on the death of the artist, her uncle. It is interesting to know that there are Shriner paintings in many outstanding collections, and that an artist so retiring and unassuming by nature enjoyed a most gratifying and profitable popularity during his lifetime, by virtue of being able to produce work with great popular appeal.

Mrs. Beardsley in Berkeley

Mrs. G. F. Beardsley has been in Berkeley this week, called there by the death of her brother, Howard E. Wright.

as shelters.

High school students are evacuated to the canyon near the school.

Minor matters for the council to start work on, suggested by Mrs. Rowntree, were the determination of a policy regarding the disposition of useable articles donated in the scrap drive, also the formation of a committee to limit the number of posters to be placed on display in the business section so that they will not compete to such an extent that they lose their effectiveness.

Mayor Evans stated that dim out regulations were to be tightened and that better results would be obtained if all groups in town co-operated.

Announcement was made of the Red Cross and P.T.A. project to organize neighborhood first aid groups, and of the All Unit Drill to be held October 23 under the inspection of Major A. Matheney of San Francisco and representatives of the California Council of Defense and of the 9th Civilian Defense Regional office.

Next meeting was set for five o'clock on the afternoon of November 9.

a cost of $118.

Another expenditure decided upon was the ordering of dimout material for the cafeteria windows which will make it possible to darken the room so that educational films can be shown. Cost, $67.

Ordering dim out curtains for the high school gymnasium was deferred as the expense would be high and night games can be played in Sunset gymnasium.

Other action:

1. The retaining of Peter Mawdsley on a yearly basis as accountant for the board at $50 per month.

2. Granting permission of three students resident outside the district, to attend Sunset: Lou Frost, Shirley Slipner, Joan Burk.

3. Purchase of materials for an incinerator for the High School, work to be done by the students.

4. Acceptance of a text book for the air course.

A letter from George Mosolf, physical education director, requesting a leave of absence since he is to go into the Navy October 23 was read, and the board members directed a letter of appreciation for the excellent work he has done in his year with the Carmel Schools be sent to Mosolf.

Peter Mawdsley submitted his quarterly financial report.

All board members were present: Hugh Comstock, Mrs. Hugh Dormody, Mrs. G. K. Moller, Peter Ferrante and Harold Nielsen.

Dingeman Speaks At Republican Tea at Del Monte

Showing a keen interest in the coming election, a hundred Republican women met for tea in the garden room at Hotel Del Monte Wednesday afternoon following the Republican meeting at Memory Garden.

Mrs. Eugene Prince of San Francisco spoke briefly and Al Dingeman, Republican congressional candidate and one of the few men present, urged every citizen to get out and vote Nov. 3. The speakers were introduced by Mrs. Helen Clark Cranston, president of the Monterey Peninsula Republican Women's Club.

Among those present were Senator and Mrs. Ed Tickle, Mesdames Ned Weybret, wife of the assemblyman from Salinas, Myrtle Wells of Salinas, Howard Hatton, Joseph Catherwood, Anne Fisher, F. W. Ten Winkle, J. E. Abernethy, C. E. Ransom.

Citizens Enjoy Graduation Lunch Of Canteen Unit

Thirty-five representative Carmel citizens, from the Rev. Crowther and the Rev. Hulsewe to the press, enjoyed a hot, tasty and nutritious luncheon prepared and served by the Carmel Red Cross Canteen Corps out under the sun on the High School grounds Wednesday.

The meal was a final examination for the latest Red Cross class in canteen work which has been taught by Mrs. Helen Poulsen. Sampling the spaghetti and meat balls, cabbage salad, buttered rolls and steaming coffee, Mrs. Poulsen said that all nine students would pass. The Canteen Corps as a whole, of which Mrs. George M. Burton is chairman, participated in the demonstration. The meal was served before the garage which houses the canteen's sky blue trailer. This vehicle carries the complete paraphernalia with which in a pinch the Canteen Corps can get food for 150 people ready in half an hour.

Wednesday's luncheon guests were theoretical evacuees from Carmel beach. After the meal they watched the latest in mass dish washing. The dishes went into shiny garbage cans, set over low fires to keep the water warm. Rinsing consisted of dipping them up and down in scalding water in a perforated pail.

Lunch was not only on time, it was ready 15 minutes before the hour. Preparations follow typewritten directions which list the menu, the various tasks, the times at which they are to be commenced, and the committees assigned to each job.

The trailer kit includes, beside pans and dishes, shovels for digging fire and garbage pits, a rake and firewood.

The nine new recruits to Carmel's emergency canteen are Mesdames Fred Strong, R. B. Stoney, F. E. Bumgarner, C. E. Morgan, Ross Hoffmann, W. D. Powell, George L. Townsend and the Misses M. A. Smitten and B. L. Bowen.

CABBAGES AND THINGS

Monday afternoon the boss, working in the print shop to the accompaniment of the radio giving out from KDON, was startled to hear the name of the Pine Cone Cymbal come out of the loud speaker. E. F. Smith's (Plantsmith) Cabbages and Things column on the Feature Page of last issue was being read on the Monterey Adult School Program.

The subject of the column of that issue was, as Pine Cone Cymbal subscribers will recall, the Monterey High School Defense Machine Shop, and to our way of thinking, a very fine article indeed. Evidentally, the adult school authorities thought the same since they saw fit to incorporate it in their radio program.

Plantsmith, who is soon to complete his course in the Monterey Shop, plans to take a job in a defense plant in San Francisco, and will continue his Cabbages and Things Column through the mail, recounting his adventures as a defense worker and offering sidelights on his team mates, which with his penetrating and humorous approach should make good reading.

And several months ago, when Plantsmith began with us, it was in the capacity of a garden expert!

from seven to fourteen were caught and severely lectured.

The State Guardsman picked up on nothing stronger than a "police hunch" proved to be not only A.W.O.L. from Company I, Second Regiment but also admitted a record which included robbery, auto theft, escape from a Los Angeles road camp, for which he had subsequently served out his time. He was returned to the Los Angeles sheriff's office.

The Carmel police this week also aided the Monterey Police in picking up Lyle Gilbert, Carmel, charged with hit-run driving. Allegedly, he ran into a truck in Monterey, came home to Carmel and was engaged in changing his license plates in his garage when arrested.
